

True or False Questions About Mental Health

Mark T (True) or F (False) to the left of each of these statements, then check your answers below!

- 1) Everyone has mental health.
- 2) Everyone has a mental illness.
- 3) If someone in your family has a mental illness, you will also be diagnosed with a mental illness.
- 4) You can catch a mental illness from someone who has it, it is contagious.
- 5) If you're feeling sad one day, you are depressed.
- 6) You have control over whether you are in a positive or negative mental health space.
- 7) If you have a mental illness, you have it for life.
- 8) Having a mental illness means you are weak.
- 9) You should not talk about your mental illness.
- 10) Exercise can boost your mental health.
- 11) Video games cause mental illness.
- 12) If you see someone having a hard day, you should leave them alone and give them space.
- 13) People with a mental illness live in a hospital.
- 14) What you eat does not affect how you feel.

- 15) You can tell if someone has a mental illness.
- 16) Kids don't have panic attacks - they just yell or cry to get what they want.
- 17) You cannot help someone with a mental illness.
- 18) Sleep is important for mental health.
- 19) If you have a mental illness you will feel mad, sad or worried all the time.
- 20) Kids can't have a mental illness like depression, those are adults' illnesses.
- 21) Kids that have a mental illness have bad parents.
- 22) You should stay away from someone with a mental illness.
- 23) Medication for mental illness is bad.
- 24) You should reach out for help if you feel sad or worried.
- 25) You can be a Stigma-Free Superhero.

Answers

- 1) True. Your mental health can change day to day, hour to hour, minute to minute, but everyone has mental health.
- 2) False. A diagnosis of mental illness will come from a Psychiatrist, Psychologist or your family doctor.
- 3) False. Although some illnesses seem to have a genetic link, just because someone in your family has a mental illness does not mean that you will have one, too. Everybody has their own genetic makeup and you are an individual.
- 4) False. Mental illness is not at all contagious.
- 5) False. If you're sad one day you are having a poor mental health day and you can do things to cheer yourself up like exercising, getting outside and doing something you love to do. One day of feeling sad does not mean you are depressed.
- 6) True and False. There are many things you can do to make yourself feel better when you're feeling out of sorts and a little blue. Exercise, nutrition, hydration and doing something you love are some ways for you to boost your mental health for the day. However, if you have a mental illness like depression sometimes your mental health space is out of your control. If this is the case, all you can do is do your best to take care of yourself.
- 7) False. Some mental illnesses will need to be managed throughout your life, but some illnesses are treatable and you are able to conquer them.
- 8) False. So very false! If you have been diagnosed with a mental illness, we believe you are a warrior. You will need to learn how to manage and treat your illness but having a mental illness does not mean you're weak at all - in fact, we think you are very, very strong.
- 9) False. The more you talk about what you go through and your experience with your mental illness, the more educated others around you are. You don't have to talk about it if you don't, but if you want to let people know what you go through, speak up and share your experiences.

Answers

10) True. Exercise releases a bunch of “feel-good” chemicals in our body that help us fight against sad days or days when our mental health seems not-so-positive.

11) False. Video games do not cause mental illness, but too much screen time can have a negative impact on your mental health - so try to limit the amount of time you spend on your screens.

12) False. The best thing you can do is ask how they are feeling and if they are okay. If they say they just need space, give them space. But sometimes just having a friend check on them is all they need to help them feel a little better.

13) False. In fact, most people with a diagnosed mental illness do not live in a hospital. They live at home, go to school, play on a sports team and do all the things those without a mental illness do.

14) False. Proper nutrition is incredibly important for mental health. If you eat well, you help get proper nutrients to your brain and that helps you get into a positive state of mental health.

15) False. Mental illnesses are not visible illnesses, you cannot “see” them. In fact, many famous people you know have diagnosed mental illnesses including Dwayne Johnson, Beyonce, Ryan Reynolds and Adele.

16) False. When someone experiences a panic attack they have very little control over how their body responds and are unable to think clearly. In their mind, they are literally fighting for their life and cannot rationalize their behaviour.

17) False. You can help a whole lot by being a good friend and supporting them as best you can. If you have a friend with a mental illness, ask how to best support them and let them know you’re there for them.

18) True. Kids aged 7-12 need about 11 hours of sleep per night and teens need 8-9 hours of sleep per night for brain development, rest and positive mental health.

Answers

19) False. People diagnosed with a mental illness may not have to battle their illness every day. Often, if they take care of their mental health, their mental illness will not affect their day at all. Some days their illness takes over and they'll need to battle. Just like someone without a mental illness, every day is different.

20) False. Children can experience mental illnesses. In fact, many mental illnesses appear when children are young.

21) False. Mental illnesses are very complicated and arise from a combination of genetics, biology, life experiences and environment. However, parents will play an incredible role in recovery and support for their child.

22) False. You most likely go to school with someone who has a mental illness and you don't even know it. People who live with a mental illness are just like you - they have friends, they participate in things they like to do. If you have a friend with a mental illness, try your best to support them.

23) False. Many mental illnesses require medication to help with recovery. Just like you take ibuprofen for a cold or flu, medication prescribed by a doctor or psychiatrist can be used to help treat a mental illness.

24) True. If you find yourself feeling sad or worried, you should always reach out to someone you trust. Whether you're just having one hard day or if you've had many hard days - your loved ones will want to know how you're feeling and will be able to help you. If they are unsure of where to go to get help, you can send them to this link: <https://stigmafreesociety.com/help-and-resources/>

25) True! By learning more about mental health and mental illness you are well on your way to being a Stigma-Free Superhero! Please continue to be open to learning more about mental health and mental illness and find out how you can support yourself and those around you.